

Western Australian voters are MUZZLED... Why?

Under present legislation no party may run candidates under their own Party Name in a State election unless they are registered and have proven to the Electoral Commission that they have five hundred fully paid up members who are registered on the electoral roll.

Without the required number of members, party candidates can only run as INDEPENDENTS and the party name, logos etc cannot be used on ballot papers.

This undemocratic election rigging tactic was engineered by the powers that be with the express intention of keeping smaller parties out of our Parliament - so preserving their own hold on power.
