

Are we living under the Communist Manifesto?

By Elizabeth Safrany 19th June 2010

"A nation can survive its fools, and even the ambitious. But it cannot survive treason from within. An enemy at the gates is less formidable, for he is known, and he carries his banners openly. But the traitor moves among those with the gates freely, his sly whispers rustling through all the alleys, heard in the very hall of government itself. For the traitor appears no traitor. He speaks in the accents familiar to his victims, and he wears their face and their garments, and he appeals to the baseness that lies deep in hearts of men. He rots the soul of a nation. He works secretly and unknown in the night to undermine the pillars of a city. He infects the body politic so that it can no longer resist. A Murderer Is Less To Be Feared."

(The Roman writer Senator and Orator Cicero, 42 B.C.)

The only difference between Communism and socialism is its method of imposition. Communism is forced upon the people against their will. Socialism on the other hand is entered into voluntarily by the majority of voters. Even though the goals are the same, socialism is much more dangerous because it gradually enslaves the people with the use of visible force. The evils of socialism and humanism cannot survive exposure unless "good men and women do nothing"

The 10 Planks of Communism/Socialism

First Plank: Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.

Second Plank: A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

Third Plank: Abolition of all rights of inheritance.

Fourth Plank: Confiscation of property of all emigrants and rebels. (This means that if you get hostile and belligerent to the government, they can take everything from you.)

Fifth Plank: Centralisation of credit in the hands of the State by means of a National Bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly.

Sixth Plank: Centralisation of the means of communication and transport in the hands of the state.

Seventh Plank: Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state.

Eighth Plank: Equal liability of all to labour, establishment of industrial armies. (Means government implementing it so that you have to work on their terms.)

Ninth Plank: Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries, gradual abolition of the distinction between town and country by a more equitable distribution of population.

Tenth Plank: Free education for all children in public schools, abolition of children's factory labour in its present form, combination of education with industrial production. (Even private schools and their curriculum are government controlled.) Carl Marx, at the age of 30 entered a competition sponsored by the International Socialist Union of Paris, France in 1848 to which he submitted these 10 Planks of the Communist Manifesto - he won.

With these 10 Planks are we in fact practicing the Communist Manifesto without ever realising it.

Western socialism is about control. Our ancestors died and fought for a country that is slowly given to those who do not seek the Australian values or accept them.
